WORKSHOP OUTLINE

Harold Stivala

Mixing realistic skin tones using heavy body acrylics

Friday July 1

10:30-13:30

Skill Level: Intermediate -Advanced

Price: € 53

For those who are familiar with the work of Harold Stivala and his painting of realistic skin tones on busts this is an opportunity not to miss.

The course is aimed for those who would like an insight of his techniques and want to improve on their skill on how to mix skin tones especially involving large scale figures /busts.

The course will begin with an introductory presentation on colour theory and how this is applied to mixing paint.

There will be an explanation on basic and advanced colour wheels and how to maximise their use during painting.

There will be a presentation followed up by a practical demonstration on how to mix different types of skin tones using Heavy body acrylics and a wet palette.

Students will be able to see a practical demonstration on how to mix flesh tones using primary colours, mix light /middle/dark greyed values on a palette and get the correct warm and cool shadow mixes in a face. The instructor will give examples of different types of skin tone mixes using his own miniatures as a reference.

The Practical Demonstration will be done by the instructor, so students are not required to bring any material.
